

case study: KINGSPAN

Former Scarborough UTC student Thomas Goddard has graduated and become an apprentice draughtsman with our employer partners Kingspan.

Kurt Welburn - Design Manager:

“Since Tom has joined us we have been very impressed with his attitude and skillset. What stood out to us at interview was a maturity and technical competence that clearly had been fostered by his teachers. We are keen to work more closely with the UTC and can see real benefits in our partnership moving forwards.”

Technical Excellence, Employable Graduates

Kingspan®

“I’d heard of Kingspan prior to enrolling at Scarborough UTC but didn’t know the depth of the company or the range of products they made. I also didn’t know how global the company was either.

I chose to study at the UTC because of their fantastic facilities as I was interested in electrical engineering. One of my old teachers once told me “there’s no elevator to success you have to take the stairs” - This made me realise you have to work your way up to achieve your goals, you have to work hard to achieve what you want. Something the UTC has prepared me well for.

Achieving my final grade has unlocked many pathways and doors and allowed me to take my study to the the next level. UTC has helped me by giving me a good knowledge of engineering. It gave me the platform to develop myself and my career as an engineer. I think the work experience that UTC organised at the end of my first year really helped too and gave me an advantage over other people when I was applying for apprenticeships.”
